

ORAL HEALTH RESOURCES

BSG has revised the database of OH Resources with links to relevant websites. These include policies, reports, guidelines, teaching resources and other useful information relevant to the oral health of older people. Apart from the publications in Gerodontology, these resources will not come up in a Medline search.

The resource was developed to share information gathered by the OH Working Group with members, and it has open access to the public. Resources developed by BSG in collaboration with other professional societies are the first to be listed, and are endorsed by BSG.

Although we have taken all reasonable steps to provide access to adequate and reputable content, we cannot guarantee the accuracy, integrity and quality of every resource. We hope you will find it provides useful information, and in particular we recommend the sites on population predications developed by the Institute of Public Care at Oxford Brookes University: POPPI, PANSI AND DAFFODILCYMRU that are already listed under useful links.

The URLs have been checked as websites change and reformat information. If you find that any of the links are inaccessible or have changes, or want to give any feedback, please contact BSG.
